Introduction

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

A few words to introduce the VII Advanced Laparoscopic Teaching Course. Our host will be Prof. Jens Rassweiler, with his team, and we are looking forward once again to a very fruitful and stimulating course.

Prof. Rassweiler doesn't need words of introduction. He is definitely one of the pioneers in the field of Laparoscopy since the very beginning. To his merit, among others he lead the way to the retroperitoneal approach in Europe and his scientific production is overwhelming.

Since January 2002, when we started our adventure of traveling in Europe to visit the best schools of Laparoscopy, the situation has changed. Laparoscopy was regarded somehow as a fancy but probably useless new surgical technique. Today most urologists are convinced that Laparoscopy is the way surgery will be performed in the future.

How far away is this future? Why learning Laparoscopy is so difficult? Why is Laparoscopy still performed only in a few centers in every country? We will try to answer to these and other questions during this meeting.

For the time being, we feel that the exchange of ideas and experience across Europe is a special way to progress in this stimulating and challenging field.

A special thanks to our host, Prof Jens Rassweiler and to our Sponsors that once again have supported us in the organization of this VII International Course.

Looking forward to seeing you in Heilbronn
